Sometimes, it may be very hard to keep an eye on all aspects of the computer because you are deeply involved with your work. Plus, if the computer is running some outdated and slow-down tools, it is very hard to keep track of all the task. On top of that, you might want to avoid some mischievous users from inspecting your hard drive and even removing your important information. One good program that can solve most of your problems is Filemon. This is a professional tool that provides you with all the task you need to track and record your computer information. FileMon, despite being very simple and easy to use, has some very useful features to help you improve the efficiency of your computing
